

KARDANAKHI

WINE FACTORY №1

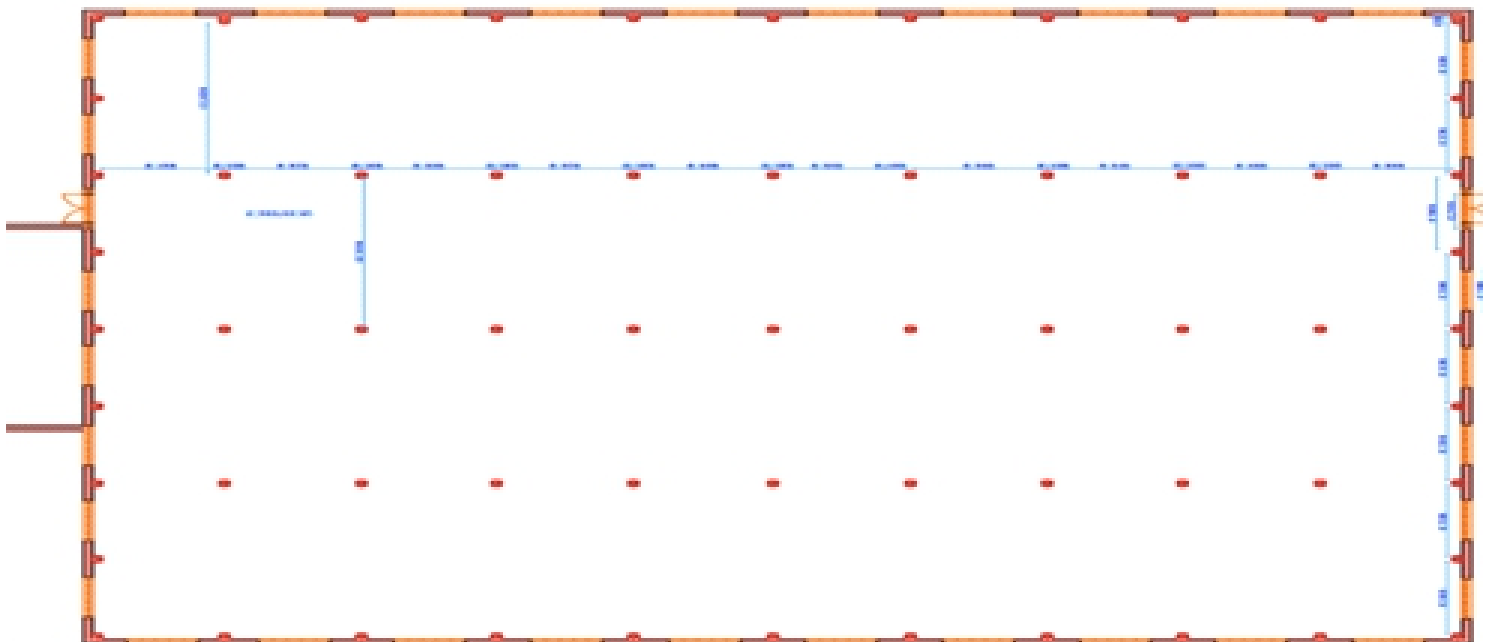

1884

XX Century

The XX century was the period of agrarian and economical revolutions for every USSR country. A whole lot of factories were built and the Georgian economics was at its peak. This also referred to Kardanakhi, where one more new factory was added. The new building had more than 600 pitchers. The communists have also built a laboratory and a workshop.

The factory began to produce wine in big quantities which then was sold in several USSR countries.

Kardanakhi was one of the most valued wines because of the quality of the pitchers in which it was made. The factory earned 3 gold and 1 silver medals on the international field. It was often visited by feudal lords.
